

THE ADAMS SENTINEL AND GENERAL ADVERTISER.

Trouble in Nebraska.

Legislature Overacted by a Mob.—The Philadelphia American has the following summary of interesting news from Nebraska:

The Territorial Legislature of Nebraska is in session and appears to be in a scene of disorder. It appears that a majority of the legislature is bent on removing the capital from Omaha to some other point, on account of the interference of mobs of people from Iowa in the territorial business. The Council, or Upper House, passed a bill authorizing the removal, but the House was unable to reach a vote on the question on account of the factious opposition of the minority, and the riotous conduct of the mob of persons thronging the lobby, mostly from Council Bluffs, Iowa, who cheer their friends and hiss and groan their opponents. Council Bluffs and Omaha are both down sites owned by the same company of speculators, who also own the ferry and are endowed with a gift of government lands. The organization of the territory has proved such a good thing for them that they cannot bear the prospect of the capitol being removed to some other point. To such an extent is the attempt to overrule the legislature carried, that the House of Representatives petitioned the Governor for sufficient military force to protect their person from violence. It is thought that the removal will pass both Houses by the requisite majority of two-thirds over the Governor's veto. To make this two-third majority in the House, the vote of the Speaker was necessary; but, under the rules of the House, he could only vote in case of a tie. To rescind this rule was, therefore, the policy of the majority; and it would have been effected but for the determined opposition of the representatives of Omaha, which prevented action. At length one of these representatives abused the Speaker personally, and refused to take his seat, whereupon the Speaker ordered the sergeant-at-arms to take him into custody. The member, a Mr. Hanscomb, defied him to do so, and significantly put his hand on his Bowie-knife. The sergeant-at-arms paused, whereupon the Speaker repeated the order. Hanscomb dared the majority to lay hands on him, and the lobby applauded. The Speaker intimated that unless this were stopped it would be necessary to clear the hobbles. The mob responded, "better try it," and, making a rush, broke down the railing, and forced the House to adjourn. It was this event which caused the House to petition the Governor for protection. It is a strange state of affairs, and will probably render the intervention of Congress necessary.

A Western Snow Storm.—The exploits of a company of gentlemen, (one of whom, Mr. McConville, is a citizen of Rochester, N.Y.), in a snow storm on the prairies, are communicated to the Union, of that city. We make the following extract from the article, by way of illustrating the pleasures of travel in the region spoken of:

The party left Freeport on the Chicago and Galena Railroad in a train bound westward. The thermometer at noon indicated twenty-one degrees below zero, and of course the weather was colder at night. The train proceeded twenty miles and became fast in the snow, and remained so for thirty hours. The locomotive was detached from the train and attempted to force its way to a station. It proceeded only three miles, when it became fast and could not proceed or return. So the passengers were thus left without wood. The train contained men, women and children, and all suffered, not only from cold, but hunger. The passengers dug up the fences from beneath the snow drifts, and burnt them as they lasted. When all this kind of fuel was exhausted, they commenced burning the ears, and actually destroyed part of one ear. All this time the cold was intense, and the wind blew a gale over the prairie. Mr. McConville and three others finally left the train and walked their way to a house, three miles distant, where they obtained food and fire. Mr. McConville had an ear frozen in his travels. He then got a team and was taken to Warren. What became of the rest of the passengers we do not state.

An Incident of the Fuel Famine at Chicago.—The Chicago Democratic Press tells the following story and vouches for its truth:

There was a crowd in the office of the city marshal yesterday, where that good-natured official was selling wood to the poor. "Stand back, all of you, and let the woman with a baby have a chance." The crowd complied, and again and again, woman after woman, each with a baby in her arms, kept pressing forward to the dock. The marshal took it coolly for a while, but finally the infant began to accuse a familiar look, and an examination was had when it turned out that the mother was lending her baby to her acquaintances, to secure the immunities which she herself enjoyed. There was a laugh all round, and a fresh start. Jim averred that the last borrower of the baby pinched it to make it excite additional sympathy."

A Remarkable Old Lady.—A Connecticut paper gives the following account of a remarkable old lady who died in that State last week:

"Mrs. Abigail Bullock died in Brooklyn, on Tuesday of last week. She was in the one hundredth year of her age, and probably the oldest person in the country, if not in the State. Her maiden name was Abigail Allen, and she was married in 1780. She was born in New York. Up till within a few weeks of her death she has always been the sole housekeeper of her son, who manages a large farm. She drew her services in consequence of the revolutionary services of her husband, who has been dead many years. She was remarkable for her great memory. It was but a few years since she could repeat verbatim Milton's Liberator. The Bible she could repeat perfectly. She would give a history of our country, especially the days of the revolution. She retained her faculties until the last, and on her death bed was ready and prepared to go wherever the summons came."

An Intruder.—A large woman, who is said to be a Brooklyn, N.Y., a few days ago, accidentally struck a man in the head, on which over $3000 were found to be concealed in her credit.

INDIANAPOLIS, Feb. 2.—The Indiana House of Representatives and the democratic members of the Senate met to-day in what purported to be a joint convention with reference to the election of U.S. Senator. The Republicans refused to go into convention while the Democrats and the Lieutenant Governor were leaving the Senate chamber. The Republicans called one of their own number to the chair, and took from the floor the contested case of Mr. Woods, a Democratic Senator, and in the absence of the democratic Senators, declared his seat vacant, and immediately adjourned. This gives the Republicans a clear majority in the Senate over all parties.

The joint convention met and adjourned to the 5th inst., without transacting any business.

Frightful Ride.

At Franklinville near Cumberland, the Baltimore and Ohio railroad passes along the side of a precipitous mountain. At the base, Crabtree creek, a wild mountain stream, runs foaming along over its rocky bed. From the railroad to the creek, about seventy-five yards, there is a steep precipice, rising up at an angle of about forty-five degrees. On Monday night one of the locomotives attached to a burden train, just as it reached this point broke a flange, and detaching itself from the train, ran down this precipice, carrying with it the engineer and fireman. Neither of them were able to get off the locomotive until it reached the creek, where it now stands, fair and square upon the wheels, without being materially injured. But what is most singular, neither the engineer nor the fireman received the slightest harm. They scarcely had time to think before they were landed in the rocky bed of the creek. The locomotive is at least seventy-five yards from the railroad, and to get it back upon the road again it will require the construction of a temporary track.

Fire and Death.—The house of Mr. Daniel Fidler, in Upper Heidelberg township, Berks county, took fire from a stove pipe on Monday week, and was entirely consumed. Mr. Fidler and family succeeded in saving the greater portion of the household goods. None of the neighbors saw the fire until it had nearly destroyed the building. They promptly rendered all the aid they could. The family were prevailed upon to go to the house of a neighbor, Mr. H. Shower. In about half an hour after they had reached the house, which was not far off, Mr. Fidler was taken suddenly ill, and in a short time died. Mr. Henry Benetton, a nephew of Mr. Fidler, died about the same time, from a severe attack of rheumatism. A child of Mr. Fidler, in the same township, died the same week, owing to its clothes having taken fire at the stove.

Shocking Occurrence.—The Bath (N.Y.) Courier states that on the 21st ult., as the Rev. E. H. Havens, of Dudley Settlement, near that village, was boiling a quantity of spirits of turpentine and resin, for making a balsam, the mixture exploded, blowing the glass out of the windows, and scattering the burning mixture amongst his family. Mrs. Havens died the same evening; a child, two years old, died soon after midnight; Mr. Havens lived till next morning, and two other children, a girl of 15 and a boy of 5 years old, were dreadfully burned—the latter, it was thought, could not recover. The house was on fire, but was saved by some neighbors.

McKinney, the alleged murderer of Samuel T. Norcross, near Altoona, Pa., on the 15th ult., was arrested in Philadelphia on Saturday week. Norcross, who belonged to Massachusetts, had in his possession over $2000 at the time he was murdered. The murderer was suffering from an abscess under his arm, and subsequently fell in company with McKinney, who assisted him in removing his clothes, and proceeded on the journey with him.

They left Pittsburg for Philadelphia at six o'clock on the evening of the 15th. The next morning about three o'clock Norcross was discovered by some employees of the Pennsylvania railroad in a ditch, with his throat cut and his head face badly mangled with a club. When found he was in a stooping posture, upon his hands and knees. Life was not extinct, but he could not speak. He was placed upon a railroad car which was passing, and conveyed to Altoona, where he died a few hours afterwards. The affair created great excitement at Altoona, and the murderer would certainly have been lynched on the spot had he been caught at the time.

The Profits of the Slave Trade.—It is estimated that about forty vessels are engaged in this country in the slave trade. These, it is calculated, ship 400 negroes each from the African coast, of whom 500 are landed at the port of destination. Allowing $3,000 for each vessel to brokerage and commission from the port whence she sails, $4,000 on each vessel for wages for officers and crew, $15 a head for the purchase of negroes on the African coast, and $42 to secure the landing of each negro at the port of delivery, the whole cost would come up to $1,476,000. Twenty thousand negroes, at $300 a head, would produce $10,000,000, a clear profit of $8,524,000, or up to two voyages a year, more than $17,000,000.

A Wrester Among the Indians.—The Buffalo Commercial says:

Chief Webster is a great high priest among the Indians. He is 65 years of age, and is a son of Squire Webster, from New Hampshire, who settled among the Oneidas long ago, married an Indian woman, and died among them. He is a relative of the great American statesman of that name, and although he has a white father, he nevertheless, in fact, manners and habits all Indian, affording a living illustration of how much the mind and associations affect not only their physical but mental developments. Chief Webster is an excellent orator.

Alleged Horrible Murder.—A man named Albright was recently charged with the murder of his son, at Watertown, Wisconsin, by striking him on the head with an ax. Because the poor little fellow was unable to prove his innocence, he was condemned to death, for which the condemned sentence had been sent him. He was sentenced to die.

Payment of State Debt Interest.

The payment of the semi-annual interest on the funded debt of the State of Pennsylvania was commenced at the Bank of Philadelphia, in Philadelphia, on Monday morning, by Mr. Fennerius, the State agent. On that day $619,000 was paid out, and on Tuesday about $20,000 more, making in all sum $639,000, of which a sum of interest about two-thirds go to foreign holders of the bonds. The whole amount of the semi-annual interest payable at this time is between $900,000 and $1,000,000.

Dr. MELLING, our late State Senator, has removed from East Berlin to Harrisburg, as a permanent residence, for the practice of his profession.

GETTYSBURG:

MONDAY, FEB. 9, 1857.

It was Mr. BREWER, our Senator, who presented the petitions for the Savings' Fund charter, not Mr. BROWNE, as the Harrisburg papers made us say last week.

Dr. MELLING, our late State Senator, has removed from East Berlin to Harrisburg, as a permanent residence, for the practice of his profession.

Frightful Ride.

The following sales of real estate have been lately made in Huntington township:—Joel Wierman sold his farm of 125 acres for $5,175.—Josse Oline purchaser.—John Mateor sold his farm of 115 acres for $5,175.—Josse Oline purchaser.—John Mateor sold his farm of 115 acres for $4,000.—Joseph Day purchaser. Jacob Asper sold a house, and lot of 20 acres, for $1,050.—George Wijnd purchaser. Mary Albert sold a farm of 70 acres for $1,500.—Jacob A. per purchaser.

The attention of our readers is called to the advertisement of L. Scott & Co., for the re-publication of the English Quarterly—which bears a very high rank in the literary world. The reduction in price is a great inducement to subscribers.

A young man, resident in Freedom township, named Wm. Astor, of McPherson, was shot to death, near Roth's mill, during the intensely cold weather of two or three weeks ago. He left the mill in the evening, and was not found until the second morning afterwards.

On Tuesday morning last the mercury was 18 degrees below zero, in his place. A change of weather took place on Wednesday, and an old-fashioned "blow" has since been reducing the snow-drifts in a very considerable degree.

Mr. A. B. KURTZ has disposed of his grocery establishment to Mr. EPRAHMIN MINNIG; and the latter requests us to say that he will be very happy to receive the custom enjoyed by his predecessor, and would be pleased to have a visit from the public generally.

State Convention.—Chas. Gibbons, Esq., Chairman of the Republican State Committee, has issued a call for a State Convention, to be held at Harrisburg, on Wednesday the 15th of March next, for the nomination of candidates for Governor and other State officers. This movement does not meet with favor from the "American" branch of the Opposition; and we see discord and disunion ahead, if these divisions press their particular views. A poet once said—

It is with the time-honored Whig party.

It noble banner gazed over a gallant band for many, many years; and its principles have stood the test of faction and of time.

Why not, then, rally under that glorious flag in the important contest of October?

The Hon. H. C. King (Rep.) was elected U.S. Senator, by the Legislature of New York, on Tuesday last, by a large majority.

Mr. Buchanan returned on Tuesday last from Washington to Lancaster, having concluded his private arrangements at the Capitol for his approaching inauguration. His trip home was as little known to the people on the route as when he went to the Capital, so that there was no opportunity for glorification by his disinterested friends at Lancaster.

His trip home was as little known to the people on the route as when he went to the Capital, so that there was no opportunity for glorification by his disinterested friends at Lancaster.

Mr. Zimmerman (dem) was elected Mayor of Lancaster on Tuesday, by a large majority over all the other candidates.

PURE FRESH COD LIVER OIL.

THIS new and valuable Medicine, now used by the medical profession with such astonishing efficacy in the cure of

Pulmonary Consumption, Scrofula, Chronic Rheumatism, Gout, General Debility, Complaints of the Kidneys,

&c., &c., is prepared from the Liver of the COD FISH for medicinal use, expressly for our sales. (Extract from the London Medical Journal)

"C. J. Williams, M. D. F. R. S. Professor of Medicine in University College, London Consulting Physician to the Hospital for Consumption, says: I have prescribed the Oil in above four thousand cases of tubercular disease of the Lungs, in different stages, which have been under my care the last two years and half. In the larger number of cases, 200 out of 234, its use was followed by marked and unequivocal improvement, varying in degree, in different cases, from a temporary remission of the progress of the disease and mitigation of distressing symptoms, up to a complete and complete restoration to health.

The effect of the Cod Liver Oil in most of those cases was very remarkable. Even in advanced cases the cough was mitigated, the expectoration diminished in quantity and consistency, then the voice, and the pulse became slower, and in better volume, and the appetite, flesh and strength were gradually restored. In conclusion, I find that the pure fresh oil from the liver of the Cod is more beneficial in the treatment of Pulmonary Consumption than any other medicament, dietetic or regimens, that has yet been employed."

THE HORRIBLE AND MYSTERIOUS MURDER IN NEW YORK.

A very dreadful tragedy, says the N.Y. Herald of Sunday, was enacted at the house No. 31 Bond street, either on Friday night or very early yesterday (Saturday) morning, which resulted in the death of Dr. Henry Burdell, a dentist who practised there. The boy who attended to the work room of the deceased, on going to the above named boarding house, yesterday morning, found, a little after eight o'clock, the body of his employer lying on the floor of his bed room, dead, and surrounded with cloths of congealed blood.

Much alarm naturally existed, and Dr. Francis was called in to make a post-mortem examination. He found that Dr. Burdell had been strangled by a ligature applied around the throat, and that the murderer had inflicted besides fifteen deep wounds with a sharp instrument on his person, any one of which was almost sufficient to cause death alone.

On searching the house last night, a sheet and a night shirt, both stained with blood, were found in a room near the garret, but great caution will be required in ascertaining the suspicion of having committed such a diabolical crime on any person — However, the officers should not, and we hope will not, rest until the perpetrator or perpetrators of the deed are made amenable to justice.

Courtesy investigated this horrid affair. It has already appeared that the deceased had some qualms about money matters with his landlady. The following testimony was taken:

John Burdell, a boy, who attended to Dr. Burdell, testified to finding him, in the morning, lying on the floor with blood around his, in down stairs and gave the alarm.

Allen Shultz, a partner of Burdell, testified to having heard angry words between Dr. Burdell and Mrs. Cunningham, his landlady, relative to some papers and notes to a considerable amount. I never knew of anybody sleeping with the deceased at night, neither did I hear that a doctor from Havana slept with him last summer; I never heard or knew that any female slept with him; I have never heard from him that any one owed him ill will except the difficulty between him and Mrs. Cunningham about the notes.

The Mrs. Cunningham alluded to is Emma Augusta Burdell, the wife of deceased. She was under examination, and presented a certificate of her marriage.

From a post mortem examination of the body, it appears strangulation had been used as a means of destroying the life of the deceased. His tongue was also found to be protruding some distance from his mouth, which also proved that the deceased had been suffocated. In the heart were found two wounds, one in the ventricle and the other in the auricle. — The lungs were also cut; also the carotid artery and first vertebra.

There were fifteen incised wounds upon the body, all of which were deep and appeared to have been made with a very narrow bladed instrument. There did not appear to be any injuries on the head. — Around the neck there was a discoloration of the skin, as though the deceased had been seized by the throat while the murderer was plunging the knife with fatal dexterity into the body of the victim.

The room wherein the murder was committed was the reception room and office of the deceased. The death struggle appears to have taken place in the corner of the room nearest the door, for here the walls are stained with streaks and sprouts of blood. It was here, too, that the jugular vein was severed, for there is a perfect stream of gore upon the walls in this corner of the room.

Mrs. Burdell says that her husband never kept any money in the house; that he always deposited it in the bank, & there does not appear to have been any incentive to robbery in the commission of this most foul and cruel murder. Moreover, none of the deceased's papers were discovered to have been touched.

Everything was in order, so that the presumption that he might have been murdered by burglars is entirely out of the question.

Dr. Burdell was quite a wealthy man, being possessed of $80,000 in stocks and real estate. He has been married twice.

FURTHER AND IMPORTANT PARTICULARS.

On Monday night the coroner's assitant called upon Mr. and Mrs. Stevens, at 87 Mercer street, both of whom were called upon the stand as witnesses yesterday. Mrs. Stevens stated that Mr. Ekel called upon her some time since, and tried to get her to go to No. 31 Bond street, and remain there some time, while Mrs. Cunningham would go and stay at Mr. Stevens' house, thereby making Dr. Burdell jealous and so as to get him into a row about Mrs. Cunningham.

She also stated that more than two weeks ago Dr. Harvey Burdell was at her house, and stated that there was a dispute between him and Mrs. Cunningham and Mr. Ekel; that the doctor was afraid they would murder him — that he hardly dared sleep in his own bed, in his own house, for fear of their taking his life. This is what he remembered, was told to Mrs. Stevens by Dr. Burdell two weeks before his death. Mr. and Mrs. Stevens were then taken to the Fifteenth ward station house, when Mr. Ekel was introduced, and they were asked if he was the man; they replied that he was the man, they knew him by his voice and form; but when they saw him before he was not so bold — he had black hair on his head, &c. The Coroner did not think this difference as to the appearance of Mr. Ekel very important, but nevertheless noted it, and while examining the premises found the wig of Mr. Ekel secreted in a nightcap in his cell. On being asked the reason for this change in his appearance, and why he did not wear his wig, Mr. Ekel seemed confused, but at length said he had forgotten to put it on.

Important papers belonging to Dr. Burdell found in Ekel's Private Secretary.

During the examination the police captain who has charge of the building occupied the room with a package of papers belonging to Dr. Burdell, which he informed the jury and others that he found on Sunday night in Ekel's private secretary. Among these papers were some very important ones.

In this package was the paper which Dr. Burdell seemed so anxious to keep from Mrs. Cunningham, and which was an agreement on her part to leave the house on the 1st of May. There were also some notes from Mrs. Cunningham in it, likewise some notes of hand.

There are several other very important papers among this package, which will be offered in evidence today. One of the officials present remarked that he considered the evidence in them sufficient alone to convict the parties. The evidence of persons who know Mr. Ekel's handwriting will be taken, and if the words "private papers" on the envelope containing Dr. Burdell's papers, found in the pocket of the former, is in Ekel's handwriting, it will tend greatly to direct the conduct and opinion of the jury.

LATER.—Ekel and Mrs. Cunningham have been arrested on the charge of murdering Dr. Burdell. The alleged marriage between Mrs. C. and the Dr., is said to be a fraud, concocted by Ekel and Mrs. C., to enable the latter to get possession of the Dr.'s wealth after his death! Mrs. C. is a woman of loose virtue, and Ekel her paramour.

A P. M. Postscript and Narrows Escape — On Sunday evening, Jan. 18th, a young woman residing with Mrs. Louisa Seiles, of Upper Darby, in Delaware county, was returning on foot to her home from a visit to her sister, residing about half a mile distant and white crooked field which led to the house, she became blinded and bewildered by the driving snow, and lost her way. She left her sister at seven o'clock in the evening, and wandered about that long and dismal night, through snow drifts across frozen streams, and through the woods. The cold was intense, that she lost all consciousness. On the following morning, at sunrise, she was found in the stable of Marshall Blaett, on the West Chester road, near the cattle. She was unconscious, whatever she experienced. Her hands and feet were badly frozen, and altogether she was in a most pitiable condition. Mr. Blaett took her into his house, and with the assistance of his family, rendered every aid in his power, to make the suffering woman comfortable. She is slowly recovering, but it is thought will lose her fingers, they being very much frost bitten.

Marine Losses for January. — The New York Courier publishes a list of the vessels reported to be totally lost during the month of January, which shows a total of one hundred and thirty-one vessels, of which twenty-four were ships, fourteen barkas, thirty-two brigs, fifty-nine schooners, and two sloops. The Courier says :

The total value of the property lost was three millions, seven hundred and thirty-four thousand two hundred dollars. This is exclusive of partial losses of cargo and damages to vessels not amounting to a total loss, which, at an estimate, would be likely to increase the figures to something near five million dollars. We do not think that there has ever before been so large an amount of loss reported in a single month. The vessels reported in this list are chiefly American, although some foreign are included, when bound to or from a United States port, or known to be insured in this country. What proportion of the total is insured abroad or at home, and what proportion falls on owners, it is impossible to estimate with any thing like accuracy.

The number of lives actually reported to be lost is eighty-one, but if we add the crew of the vessels reported to be missing in regard to which all hope is abandoned, it swells the total to three hundred and eighty-three, a fearful sacrifice of human life to the pursuit of commerce.

There were fifteen incised wounds upon the body, all of which were deep and appeared to have been made with a very narrow bladed instrument. There did not appear to be any injuries on the head. — Around the neck there was a discoloration of the skin, as though the deceased had been seized by the throat while the murderer was plunging the knife with fatal dexterity into the body of the victim.

The room wherein the murder was committed was the reception room and office of the deceased. The death struggle appears to have taken place in the corner of the room nearest the door, for here the walls are stained with streaks and sprouts of blood. It was here, too, that the jugular vein was severed, for there is a perfect stream of gore upon the walls in this corner of the room.

Moreover, none of the deceased's papers were discovered to have been touched.

Everything was in order, so that the presumption that he might have been murdered by burglars is entirely out of the question.

Dr. Burdell was quite a wealthy man, being possessed of $80,000 in stocks and real estate. He has been married twice.

Barley without Beards!

IT is even so. A variety of barley has been discovered in the girdles of the Himalayan Mountains, entirely free from those annoying and populous beards attached to all our common varieties.

The under-grown obtained 7 grains of this new variety three years ago and being much pleased with its general appearance, has sown it in various parts of the country to multiply this small quantity as fast as the Shanghaus and other birds would allow.

Its merits for grinding or malting have not been tested, and the quantity is now too small to广场 in that way, when every tiller of the soil who sees it, is anxious to have a few grains, not doubt it will prove valuable acquisition. I have sufficient, however, to furnish all persons interested, who will be likely to see this notice, with one head each, containing 30 to 60 grains. Send me your address, on a stamped envelope, and I will enclose a head, and send it back by return mail, with printed instructions for cultivating in a way to insure a large return from a small quantity of seed. Should this new variety be found to answer all the purposes of the common barley, a few years will suffice to drive the "Barley Beard" from the country.

Should any person desire more than the one head, I will send a package of 700 to 900 grains securely enveloped, by mail, post paid, for 25 cents, accompanied with a few heads to prove the fact of its being beardless.

THE ADAMS SENTINEL AND GENERAL ADVERTISER.

Trouble in Nebraska.

Legislature Overruled by a Mob.—The Philadelphia American has the following summary of interesting news from Nebraska:

The Territorial Legislature of Nebraska is in session and appears to be a scene of disorder. It appears that a majority of the legislature is bent on removing the capital from Omaha to some other point, on account of the interference of mobs of people from Iowa in the territorial business. The Council, or Upper House, passed a bill authorizing the removal, but the House was unable to reach a vote on the question on account of the factions opposition of the minority, and the notorious conduct of the mob of persons throughout the lobby, mostly from Council Bluffs, Iowa, who cheer their friends and hiss and grieve their opponents. Council Bluffs and Omaha are both town sites owned by the same company of speculators, who also own the ferry and are endowed with a gift of government lands. The organization of the territory has proved such a good thing for them that they cannot bear the prospect of the capitol being removed to some other point. To such an extent is the attempt to overrule the legislature carried, that the House of Representatives petitioned the Governor for a sufficient military force to protect their persons from violence. It is thought that the removal will pass both Houses by the requisite majority of two-thirds over the Governor's veto. To make this two-thirds majority in the House, the vote of the Speaker was necessary; but, under the rules of the House, he could only vote in case of a tie. To rescind this rule was, therefore, the policy of the majority, and it would have been effected but for the determined opposition of the representatives of Omaha, which prevented action. At length one of these representatives abused the Speaker personally, and refused to take his seat, whereupon the Speaker ordered the sergeant-at-arms to take him into custody. The member, a Mr. Haascomb, defied him to do so, and significantly put his hand on a bowie-knife. The sergeant-at-arms paused, whereupon the Speaker repeated the order. Haascomb defied the majority to lay hands on him, and the body applauded. The Speaker intimated that unless this were stopped it would be necessary to clear the lobbies. The mob responded, "better try it," and, making a rush, broke down the railing, and forced the House to adjourn. It was this event which caused the House to petition the Governor for protection. It is a strange state of affairs, and will probably render the intervention of Congress necessary.

A Western Snow Storm.—The exploits of a company of gentlemen, (one of whom, Mr. McConville, is a citizen of Rochester, N. Y.), in a snow storm on the prairies, are communicated to the Union, of that city. We make the following extract from the article, by way of illustrating the pleasures of travel in the region spoken of:

The party left Freeport on the Chicago and Galena Railroad in a train bound westward. The thermometer at noon indicated twenty-one degrees below zero, and of course the weather was colder at night. The train proceeded twenty miles and became fast in the snow, and remained so for thirty hours. The locomotive was detached from the train and attempted to force its way to a station. It proceeded only three miles, when it became fast and could not proceed or return. So the passengers were thus left without wood. The train contained men, women and children, and all suffered, not only from cold, but hunger. The passengers dug up the fences from beneath the snow drifts, and bartered them as they lasted. When all this kind of fuel was exhausted, they commenced burning the cars, and actually destroyed a part of one car. All this time the cold was intense, and the wind blew a gale over the prairie. Mr. McConville and three others finally left the train and worked their way to a house three miles distant, where they obtained food and fire. Mr. McConville had an ear frozen in his travels. He then got a team and was taken to Warren. What became of the rest of the passengers he does not state.

An Incident of the Frel Famine at Chicago.—The Chicago Democratic Press tells the following story and vouches for its truth:

There was a crowd in the office of the city marshal yesterday, where that good-natured official was selling wool to the poor. "Stand back, all of you, and let the woman with a baby have a chance." The crowd complied, and again and again, woman after woman, each with a babe in her arms, kept pressing forward to the desk. The marshal took it coolly for a while, but finally the infant began to assume a familiar look, and an examination was had, when it turned out that the mother was leading her baby to her aquaintances, to secure the immunities which she herself enjoyed. There was a laugh all round, and a fresh start. Jim avers that the last borrower of the baby pushed it to make it exude additional sympathy."

A Remarkable Old Lady.—A Courier paper gives the following account of a remarkable old lady who died in that State last week:

"Mrs. Abigail Read died in 2 years, on Tuesday of last week. She was in the one hundredth year of her age, and probably the oldest person in the country, if not in the State. Her maiden name was Abigail Allen and she was married in 1780. She was born in Montville. Up the winter ten weeks of her death she had always been the sole keeper of her son, who now has a large farm. She grew a pension in consequence of the revolution, and left her husband, who has 30 or 40 years. She was a remarkable old woman, and though she had a bad memory, it was but a few years since she would repeat wisdom. Mrs. Read's last words were, 'I am going to heaven.' The wife she would leave perfectly. She would give a history of her country, especially the days of the revolution. She retained her faculties until the last, and on said that she was ready and prepared to go whenever the summons came."

An Investor.—A local woman, while seeking safety in Utica, N. Y., six days ago, accidentally got into a boat, the back of which cost over $200,000, and it was her credit.

Strange Doings in the Indiana Legislature.—The U. S. Senatorial Question.

INDIANAPOLIS, Feb. 2.—The Indiana House of Representatives and the democratic members of the Senate met to-day in what purported to be a joint convention with reference to the election of U. S. Senators, the Republicans refusing to go into convention while the Democrats and the Lieutenant Governor were leaving the Senate chamber. The Republicans called one of their own number to the chair, and took from the table the contested case of Mr. Wood, a Democratic Senator, and in the absence of the democratic Senators, declared his seat vacant, and immediately adjourned. This gives the Republicans a clear majority in the Senate over all parties.

The joint convention met and adjourned to the 6th inst., without transacting any business.

Dr. MELLINGER.—Our late State Senator, has removed from East Berlin to Harrisburg, as a permanent residence for the practice of his profession.

Frightful Ride.

At Frankville, near Cumberland, the Baltimore and Ohio railroad passes along the side of a precipitous mountain. At the base, Crabtree creek, a wild mountain stream, runs foaming along over its rocky bed. From the railroad to the creek, about seventy-five yards, there is a steep precipice rising up at an angle of about fifty-five degrees. On Monday night one of the locomotives attached to a burden train, just as it reached this point broke a flange, and, detaching itself from the train, ran down the precipice, carrying with it the engine and fireman. Neither of them were able to get from the locomotive until it reached the creek, where it now stands, fair and square upon the wheels, without being materially injured. But what is most singular, with the engine, or the firemen received the slightest harm. They scarcely had time to think before they were led in the rocky bed of the creek. The locomotive is at least seventy-five yards from the railroad, and to get it back upon the rail again it will require the construction of a temporary track.

Fire and Death.—The house of Mr. Daniel Fidler, in Upper Heidelberg township, Bucks county, took fire from a stove pipe on Monday week, and was entirely consumed. Mr. Fidler and family succeeded in saving the greater portion of the household goods. None of the neighbors saw the fire until it had nearly destroyed the building. They promptly rendered all the aid they could. The family were prevailed upon to go to the house of a neighbor, Mr. H. Shower. In about half an hour after they had reached the house, which was not far off, Mr. Fidler was taken suddenly ill, and in a short time died. Mr. Henry Benzenberg, a nephew of Mr. Fidler, died about the same time, from a severe attack of rheumatism. A child of Mr. Fidler, in the same township, died the same week, owing to its clothes having taken fire at the stove.

Stocking Occurrence.—The Bath (N. Y.) Courier states that on the 21st ult., as the Rev. H. Havens, of Dudley Seminary, near that village, was boiling a quantity of spirits of turpentine and rosin, for making balsam, the mixture exploded, blowing the glass out of the windows, and scattering the burning mixture amongst his family. Mrs. Havens died the same evening;

a child, two years old, died soon after midnight; Mr. Havens lived till next morning, and two other children, a girl of 15 and a boy of 5 years old, were dreadfully burned—the latter, it was thought, could not recover. The house was on fire, but was saved by some neighbors.

McKinney, the alleged murderer of

Mr. Samuel T. Norcross, near Altoona, Pa.,

on the 15th ult., was arrested in Philadelphia on Saturday evening. Norcross, who belonged to Massachusetts, had in his possession over $2000 at the time he was murdered. The murdered man was suffering from an abscess under his arm, and subsequently fell in company with McKinney, who assisted him in removing his clothes, and procceeded on the journey with him.

He left Pittsburgh for Philadelphia at six o'clock on the evening of the 15th.

The next morning about three o'clock Norcross was discovered by some employees of the Pennsylvania railroad in a ditch, with his throat cut and his head and face badly mangled with a club. When found he was in a stooping posture, upon his hands and knees. Life was not extinct, but he could not speak. He was placed upon a railroad train which was passing, and conveyed to Altoona, where he died a few hours afterwards. The affair created great excitement at Altoona, and the murderer would certainly have been lynched on the spot had he been caught at the time.

Mr. Zimmerman (dem.) was elected

Mayor of Lancaster on Tuesday, by 42 majority over all the other candidates.

The Profits of the Slave Trade.—It is estimated that about forty vessels were engaged in this country in the slave trade—that it is calculated, ship 500 negroes

each from the African coast, of whom 500 were slain at the port of destination.

Allowing $2,000 for each vessel for brokerage and commission from the port whence the slaves, $4,000 on each vessel for wages for officers and men, $15 a head for the purchase of negroes on the African coast, and $22 to secure the landing of each negroe at the port of delivery, the whole cost would come up to $1,476,000. Twenty thousand negroes, at $200 a head, would produce

$4,000,000, a clear profit of $2,524,000, or even $2,700,000 a year, more than $17,000,000.

A Relater Among the Indians.—The Buffalo Commercial says:

"Chief Webster is a great high priest among the Indians. He is 65 years of age, and is a son of Squier Webster, from New Hampshire, who settled among the Onondaga Indians a long time ago, married an Indian woman, and died among them. He is a native of the great American statesmen of that name, and although he has a white face, he nevertheless is Indian, in manners and habits all Indian, using a living language, and an Indian pronunciation.

Chief Webster is an excellent orator."

Abigail Allbright.—A woman named Allbright was recently charged with the murder of her son, at Waukesha,

Wisconsin, striking him on the head with an ax, during the past winter, and then stabbing him to death.

She remained quiet until the fact, and on said that she was ready and prepared to go whenever the summons came."

An Investor.—A local woman, while sojourning at Utica, N. Y., six days ago, accidentally got into a boat, the back of which cost over $200,000, and it was her credit.
